

Fauci Says WHO Was Wrong About Saying Asymptomatic Spread Of Coronavirus Is Rare

By Michael Cantrell June 10, 2020

Dr. Anthony Fauci, the top government infectious disease expert who has been an integral part of President Trump's coronavirus task force, stated that recent comments by the World Health Organization concerning the asymptomatic spread of the coronavirus being "very rare" were not correct.

It's getting really hard to take anything any of these so-called "experts" say on this illness very seriously, as everything they say contradicts whatever was said before. Who does one trust in a situation like that? Which information is accurate and true? Is any of it?

Fauci made an appearance on Good Morning America on Wednesday where he said, "They walked that back, because there's no evidence that that's the case. To make a statement that that's a rare event was not correct."

Here's more on this from The Washington Examiner:

Kerkhove said Monday that "it still seems to be rare that an asymptomatic person actually transmits onward to a secondary individual." She revised her statement on Tuesday via a Facebook Live event, when she said, "I was responding to a question at the press conference. I wasn't stating a policy of WHO or anything like that. I was trying to articulate what we know, and in that, I used the phrase 'very rare.'"

Her claim spurred criticism from other health experts and epidemiologists because reducing the risk of asymptomatic spread was a goal of enacting statewide lockdowns and economic restrictions. Fauci and members of the White House Coronavirus Task Force have stressed the need to curb asymptomatic transmission of the virus since the pandemic began.

"The evidence that we have, given the percentage of people, which is about 25, 45% of the totality of infected people likely are without symptoms," Fauci said Wednesday. "And we know from epidemiological studies that they can transmit to someone who is uninfected."

The current number of COVID-19 cases in America is hovering just below 2 million as states across the country continue forward with plans to reopen their economies. Daily case numbers are starting to slow down, but don't get too excited just yet, says Dr. Fauci, who seems to determined to rain on as many parades as possible.

According to the good doctor, the pandemic is not over. He said some communities will see very low infection rates while others will need to continue exercising caution to prevent additional spikes.

Again, how do we know Fauci is telling the truth or that the information he has is accurate? So many different "experts" and "professionals" are saying different things. Someone is wrong. The problem right now is we can't tell who those people are.

Jacob Blake's Sexual Assault Criminal Complaint Is Made Public, & It Is Graphic — Details

Shouldn't liberal women care about this?

Donald Trump will be re-elected in November because people are getting tired of the Democrat Party's BS. It is really that simple. Who wants to see "leaders" openly supporting rioters and looters? Jacob Blake was not a good guy. Before being shot by a police officer, Blake literally did everything possible to get himself shot. Shouldn't BLM care that Blake had a violent history with women and cops? How about the fact that he had an officer in a headlock, refused to comply with their orders, and kept resisting arrest after being tased? From New York Post: The victim, who is only identified by her initials in the paperwork, told police she was asleep in bed with one of her children when Blake came into the room around 6 a.m. and allegedly said "I want my sh-t," the record states. She told cops Blake then used his finger to sexually assault her, sniffed it and said, "Smells like you've been with other men," the criminal complaint alleges. CONTINUED: Jacob Blake handcuffed to hospital bed despite paralysis, father says The officer who took her statement said she "had a very difficult time telling him this and cried as she told how the defendant assaulted her." The alleged victim said Blake "penetrating her digitally caused her pain and humiliation and was done without her consent" and she was "very humiliated and upset by the sexual assault," the record states. <https://twitter.com/Crypsis12/status/1299700093902225410>

Had Blake complied with the cops, he would not be in the hospital today. He would not be paralyzed. He would not have been shot. But don't expect to hear any of that from a Democrat.

Left-Wing 'Antifa' Protesters Set Portland Police Association Building On Fire, Again — Video

What a shame.

“Antifa” stands for anti-fascist. Ironic, isn’t it? The only thing the liberal group actually stands for, though, is silencing the other side – which is... wait for it...fascism. The people associated with this outfit are the product of a poor education system, one that says everything America is evil and racist. This is what happens when ignorance meets far-left policies. From TDW: Left-wing rioters set fire to the Portland Police Association (PPA) building on Friday night as the city continues to be rattled by violence from antifa extremists. “The PPA office has been the site of numerous violent protests over the past few months, and protesters have lit the building on fire several times,” the Portland Police Department said in a statement. “It is located in a residential neighborhood and there is concern that any building fire could spread to occupied homes, especially during the current stretch of dry weather.” LOOK:
